While not previously at the forefront of messaging, keeping guests safe is also of paramount importance. As Archer Hotel Austin welcomes guests, here is what is being done to be safely together again:

Taking the Lead from Experts: The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) has become Archer Hotel's go-to resource along with guidance provided by local, state and federal agencies.

Crazy Cleaning: While guests were home staying safe, we were busy cleaning. Like crazy. Our team disinfected nearly every surface and touch point throughout the hotel. We continue our enhanced cleaning and sanitation throughout the day — paying extra attention to high touch areas such as entry doors, glass, floors, front desk counters, credit card devices, elevator buttons, door handles, light switches, TV remotes and restrooms. The entire Archer Hotel collection is using UV sanitizing wands that work with invisible light to clean surfaces and eliminate bacteria and viruses without any harmful chemicals.

SAFETY PRECAUTIONS: Archer's hosts have been provided and trained on the proper use of personal protective equipment (PPE).

For the Love of Guests: Our hosts have been known to greet guests personally (especially those who come back frequently, and we know by name) with a warm hug or solid handshake. Now we'll be sure to adequately social distancing (six feet away) at arrival, departure, in elevators and throughout the hotel. To minimize interactions, guests are welcome to leave their keys in their room and will be emailed their final folio.

The New Norm: Frequent handwashing with ever-present reminders in every restroom and hand sanitizer throughout the hotel will help prevent the spread of germs. Extra coaching, care and the encouragement to stay home will be a trifecta that is readily practiced, provided and preached amongst our team.

If You Can't Make It, We Get It: For Archer guests with existing reservations, including pre-paid non-refundable reservations, through June 30, 2020, we will honor changes or cancellation without a charge if cancelled prior to scheduled arrival. Beyond that, Archer Hotel Austin continues to offer flexible 24-hour advance cancellations.

We Want to Show You Around, Virtually: Meanwhile, as guests and groups ready to return to Austin, guests and planners can schedule a guided virtual tour with a one of Archer's hosts by reaching out directly to each hotel.
